UNDECORATION DAY—Movie Actor Audie Murphy, most decorated American hero of World War II, has given away his 21 medals to kids all over the country. His Congressional Medal of Honor, the nation's most prized military award, went to his nephew, Weldon Burns, 8, of Dallas, Tex. He doesn't remember who got most of the others. "There are too many guys who should have gotten medals and never did," said Murphy.

AP Correspondent Don White head said the marines advanced over a savagely contested slope.

He said it was the type of fight the marines made in the Pacific in the Second World War.

AP Correspondent Jack MacBeth reported from the 24th Infantry positions Thursday night that the army doughboys had reached their objectives. They are on the marines' northern flank.

MacBeth reported the doughboys were digging in for a possible counter-attack from 12,000 river-crossing Reds in the bridgehead during Thursday night.

The marines were withdrawn 27 miles from their Korean South coastal gains and moved to the Nakdong river line to meet the attack.

The marines hit hard and fast in a craggy Changnyong hill and had clawed their way part of the way up it at dusk.

They had been ordered out of their southern front positions before Chinju to make the Changnyong change.

In the south they had pushed to within sight of ruined Chinju in a sweep west from Masan, south coast port 27 airline miles west of Pusan, No. 1, Allied port.

Their coast place was taken by the U. S. 25th Infantry division.

Troops of the 25th dug in Thursday night against a possible attack from the armor reinforced North Korean 6th division. The 25th had been battered almost out of the war by two 25th division segmental combat teams and the marines.

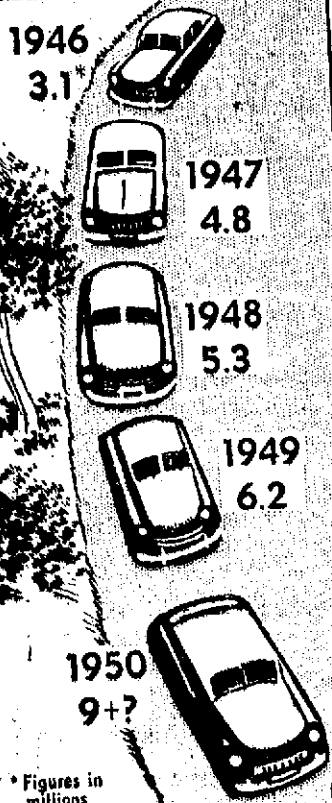

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton reported from outside Masan Thursday night that the Red 6th was building up strength for a new attack against the 25th.

Chinju, 55 miles west of Pusan, offers a straight shoot over marshes and slope to the outlast coast.

to the neutrons is not nearly as great for an H-bomb as for an A-bomb. The latter splits its atoms with a driving energy of 200,000,000 electron volts. The H-bomb fusion energies range from 4,000,000 to a little under 30,000,000.

However, this energy is not the only thing that keeps these dangerous rays driving ahead. A neutron does not even need to be travelling fast to keep on going. It will travel until some atom absorbs it.

Formosa Possible Powder Keg

London, Aug. 17 — (AP) — The big three western foreign ministers will try to hammer out a common policy next month over what to do about Formosa — possible powder keg of a Third world war.

Informants said the ministers' study will be preceded by a full-scale discussion of the problem by the United States and Britain.

The two countries have been at loggerheads over the status of the island, 110 miles off communist China's mainland but still occupied by Chiang Kai-shek's nationalist government.

The American, British and French foreign ministers are meeting in New York Sept. 9. Their parley will be followed by a session of the 12 nation Atlantic pact council. The Atlantic allies are bound by their treaty to consult each other on crucial foreign policy issues.

Weeks of discussion between American and British officials both here and in Washington so far have failed to produce a mutually acceptable policy on Formosa.

The stalemate revolves around the order of President Truman last June dispatching the U. S. Seventh fleet to protect the island against a possible Red Chinese attack.

At the same time the President called on the Nationalists to stop bombing the Chinese mainland and ships trading with it.

He did so in the hope of localizing the Korean war and neutralizing Formosa.

But the nationalist attacks on their communist foes and on foreign ships, including British vessels, trading with the Reds have not stopped.

Although Britain feels the Communists have a perfect right to stop the attacks, she fears this might involve the United States in a war which could become worldwide.

Confusing the picture is the fact that Britain has offered to recognize the Communist regime, while America still maintains relations with the nationalists.

RODRIGUEZ, Mike Dominico's chauffeur, called for me later and took me to his employer's ranch, about nine miles from the hotel. It was in a class with a dude ranch, landscaped, with the house of plastered adobe. Saguaro cactus, which doesn't grow naturally this side of Tucson, had been planted around it. Dominico greeted me in a beautifully appointed living room and Rodriguez left us alone.

"I didn't know you when I saw you in the hotel bar," said Dominico. "Didn't know until after happened to Phajol. Now we can make up for lost time. With you I can do business."

He leaned forward and grinned slyly. "Dominico pay more for diamonds than fence. You let me have stones; yes?"

I lifted my brows in astonishment. "They told me you were too reliable to dabble in hot stones. I can't believe you're really interested. Trying to trap me?"

He leaned forward still farther, grinned and winked again. "Lots of things people don't know about Dominico. I make deal. Cash. Look."

He pulled out a fat wallet and displayed the contents. "All $1000 bills! I pay for all 25,000 carat cash. Some proposition, huh? Dominico no piker!"

"No, Dominico, no piker," I repeated. "Dominico send Rodriguez to search my hotel room. Rodriguez knock me out when I return too soon, but Rodriguez no find diamonds, so now Dominico make big business deal!"

A sudden frown passed over the diamond driller's face. "I don't know what you talk about. I send Rodriguez only to pick you up and bring you here. Dominico know nothing about anybody knock you out!"

I laughed in his face, then I imitated his voice again: "Dominico lies like hell!"

The diamond driller jumped to his feet. "I bring you here for business proposition! I not take insults. You sell me the diamonds, yes?"

"I sell them, not I think it's all a gag. Dominico. You're trying to convince me you don't have the diamonds. I think you got Phajol to come to Copper City just to rob him. That's why you insisted that he bring the entire stock. Sure, you established an alibi, planting yourself with your fiancée and Phajol's own daughter in the taproom. But Rodriguez could have sneaked into the hotel and stolen the diamonds. The clumsy clown probably killed Phajol!"

Dominico snapped: "Rodriguez! The Mexican came into the room. I had already gone for my automatic, but I did not draw it out, as a voice said behind me: 'Hold it, Senor!' I turned slowly. Another man had emerged from the doorway behind me. He carried a .38, police size. Rodriguez took my gun."

Dominico ordered: "Take him into kitchen. I don't want blood on my rugs."

THE man with the gun gestured with his eyes. I moved toward the door from which Rodriguez had emerged. Rodriguez was not wearing a gun, but there was a knife in the palm of his hand. When I entered the kitchen, I stopped short. Fat Phajol stood by the huge refrigerator. Teresa Jordan was beside her. Pat met my gaze, but she did not seem happy about this business.

"Your idea?" I asked. "This was not Miss Phajol's idea," said Dominico. "It was mine. You got the stones. Now you talk. Rodriguez and Pancho make you tell truth. Go to work, boys."

I'm not quite sure about what happened from then on; certainly I can't give a blow-by-blow account. I passed out and I was lying around again when I heard Pat say:

"He can't have the diamonds; if he would have admitted it by now!"

Dominico told her: "Pancho and Rodriguez just beginning to warm up. He'll talk!"

Dominico, noticing that I was conscious, knelt beside me. "Why don't you tell me where the stones are? It will save you lots of beating up!"

"All right, Dominico. I'll tell you where the diamonds are. You'll have to take me to the hotel."

Dominico breathed a sigh of intense satisfaction. I noticed the look on Pat's face. She looked at it I had slapped her. She turned away. Teresa Jordan put a comforting arm around her shoulder.

Pancho lifted me up, and it took both him and Rodriguez to help me to the car.

WE stopped at the police station and got Chief Humbert and another policeman who followed us to the hotel in the police car. Foster, the room clerk, stared open-mouthed as we entered and Chief Humbert said:

"All right, Dorsani, where have you got the stuff?"

"Get me the bartender," Humbert went into the taproom and brought out the startled bartender. "What do you want with Heber?" the chief asked.

"Heber," I asked, having heard his name for the first time, "where did you take Lee Norton when you dragged him out of the taproom?"

"What's Norton got to do with the diamonds?" Dominico demanded. "Plenty."

The bartender answered slowly: "Why, I took Norton up to a room, like I always do when he passes out. No. 22. He's still there, I suppose. He had a dilly to sleep off."

I turned to Humbert. "Let's go up to No. 22."

Would Act to Keep China Out of War

Washington, Aug. 17 — (AP) — Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) today called for an all-out effort to keep the Chinese Communists out of the South Korean fighting.

Saying that the Russians had "baited a trap" in Asia, the ranking active Republican member of the senate foreign relations committee declared in a statement:

"The greatest challenge that we now face is to use every ounce of diplomatic strategy that we have in preventing the Chinese Red armies from becoming involved with us in a titanic struggle."

"Such a struggle would bleed us completely dry — bleed us of our manpower, bleed us of our arms, bleed us of our economic strength."

The United States, he said, must use its friends in the Philippines, India, China and elsewhere to prevent the Communists "from attempting to stir up a race war against the United States."

Wiley said he had asked the administration for a complete report on its plans to avoid tangling with the Chinese Reds in Korea and southwest Asia.

Wiley made no mention of President Truman's order to the Seventh fleet to defend the island of Formosa, where the Chinese Nationalist government is entrenched against Communist invasion.

Neither did he take note of reports sponsoring the repealer would intervene in a case where it was believed insufficient signatures would be found on petitions required to place the measure before the voters.

Opponents of the repealer previously asked the Supreme court to keep the measure off the ballot on the ground that the petitions were not signed by enough qualified voters.

The freedom to work amendment prohibits union membership or non-membership from being used as a condition of employment.

New Filling Report Drafted

Elmer R. Rouse, director of the Kansas selective service office, said that men who failed to report for military service in the recent draft could be called without a preliminary physical examination.

Compere said that reports of those to whom local sent notices failed to appear.

The director said a total of 2,000 men would be called for pre-induction physicals to meet a quota, which was set at 332 men, three less than September call.

He said a call for 332 men anticipated for November.

India's Short Of Sugar

New Delhi — (AP) — India's import 100,000 tons of sugar most essential needs during present year, the food minister announced.

Indian domestic sugar production was short of the target for last year and this year's crop also appears likely to be less than hoped. The possibility of a shortage of sugar from Formosa or Cuba is being investigated.

pested Republican demands the United States send supplies to the Nationalists.

Senate Republican Leader of Nebraska told the yesterday that the repeal for the shedding of blood in Korea rests with the State Department.

He said it had been American policy to equip only a Korean police force instead of playing the larger-scale military aid approved by congress.

British Ship, No Reds Exchange Fire

HOPE, Aug. 17 — (AP) — British destroyer Concord exchanged shore batteries fought a gun duel today in the clash between British warships and Red artillerymen on the coast of Hong Kong.

The Concord battle it was reported the navy frigate exchanged fire with gun emplacements on the island.

Concord fought with batteries on three islands — Taitam, Linting and Lingling. Her captain reported the ship was hit by a self-defense fire.

Red batteries opened up on the navy officers said there was one minor casualty and no damage to the ship as it steamed away from Hong Kong.

Red shore batteries have been firing on ships recently. On successive days last week British ships were shelled. They were British, American and Norwegian.

It was estimated the Reds fired 100 rounds at H.M.S. Concord. Destroyed fired much more.

It was the first reported exchange of gunfire between a British warship and the Chinese Communist since April, 1949. At that time the cruiser London, the destroyer Consort and the frigates Swan and Ambuscade were in the area.

Demands Stronger Words in War of Propaganda

Washington, Aug. 17 — (AP) — Rep. Gathings (D-Ark) called today for something stronger than the "Taint so..." line of defense against Russian propaganda.

The Russians tell the most outlandish lies about us," he said, "and about all we do is yell 'Taint so, taint so.'"

"What we ought to do," Gathings told a reporter, "is to ridicule these lies and laugh the Russians right out of the picture."

"They can't stand to be made ridiculous," he said. "Let's take the offensive in this propaganda."

Families of GI's May Get Support Boost

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP) — Senate and house committees today approved legislation aimed at providing $85 to $125 a month for the support of families of enlisted servicemen in the three lower grades. The man himself would pay $40 of the total.

The senate armed services committee and a house subcommittee both made the same approach to the problem. This was by amending present pay regulations to provide "quarters allowances" for privates, privates first class and corporals in the army and similar grades in the other service.

The measures differ in detail but are constructed along the same general line.

Take the house bill first. Under it, a "quarters allowance" of $45 would go to an enlisted man in the three lower grades with one dependent. If he had two dependents, it would be $70; if more than two $85. The man would have to allot $40 a month from his pay to the dependents.

This means that a wife, for instance, would receive 45 "quarters allowance" plus $40 from her husband, a total of $85. A wife and one child would receive a total of $110; a wife and two children. A total of $125.

There is now no "quarters allowance" for enlisted men in the three lower grades, although it is provided for higher ranking enlisted men and for officers.

The allowance is payment the government makes if it does not provide housing for the man's family.

The senate armed services committee formally endorsed a similar bill providing $45 allowance for a single dependent, $60 for two dependents and $75 for three.

Enlisted men above the first three grades now receive a quarters allowance of $7.50.

The senate bill would leave that unchanged but the house bill would provide a rise to $70 in the case of one dependent and to $85 if there are two or more dependents.

No change is proposed in either bill in the allowances for warrant officers.

The senate committee's action sends its bill on to the senate floor. The house measure must go from the subcommittee to the full armed services committee and receive its approval before going to the house.

Razorbacks To Depend Upon Sophs.

By CARL BELL

Little Rock, Aug. 17 (AP) — For a football team with 25 lettermen, the Arkansas Razorbacks will depend to a surprising degree upon sophomores this year.

We were talking with Coach Otis Douglas about his personnel and asked him to name his lineup based on spring practice showings and leaving himself room to make changes before the Prokters play Oklahoma A. and M. here Sept. 23.

He started with his defensive lineup, and the first four men he listed were sophs — Halfbacks Johnny Cole and Billy McFarland and outside Linebackers Bob Cross and Buddy Sutton.

"You don't have much experience there, coach."

"No," he countered, but those boys have speed and it takes plenty of speed to play on the line of scrimmage, as the linebackers do, or just a few yards back, as the halfbacks do, and still cover on passes."

Veterans Louie Schaefele and Bob Griffin are slated to do most of the inside linebacking (there are four linebackers in the Douglas defense), but Jimmy Smith and Newcomer Lewis Carpenter will get their share of it, too.

Seasoned hands also are down for defensive end duty — Frank Fischel and Pat Summerall, and the tackles now seem likely to come from among three lettermen, Fred Williams, Dane Hanner and Travis Simpson, and Soph Tom Stringer.

In this defensive setup borrowed from the Philadelphia Eagles, that leaves one spot in the middle of the line to be filled, and almost certainly it will go to Buddy Brown, rugged defensive guard of last year.

There won't be a sophomore in the starting offensive lineup unless Larry Hogue can sneak in as the quarterback or Carpenter as the fullback.

The quarterbacking assignment may be between Hogue and junior Letterman Don Logue, and that's going to be plenty confusing for the broadcasters.

Carpenter will give Letterman Joe Baldrige competition at full. Halfback starters will be experienced. It looks like Sammy Furo at right and either Ray Parks or Buddy Rogers at left.

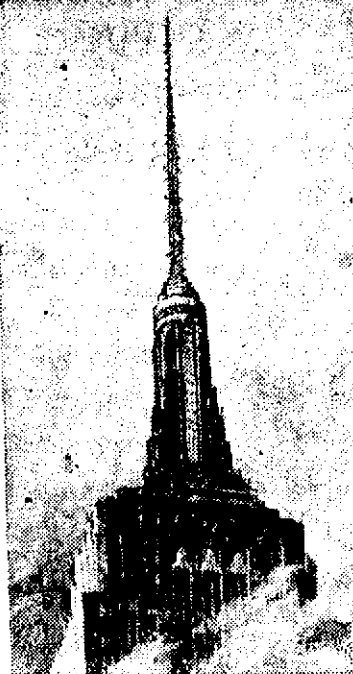

In the line Jack Richards — 1948 letter winner returning after dropping out last season — and Marvin Stendel provide experience and pass-catching ability; Hanner and Simpson probably will get the calls at tackles; the guards will come from among Brown, Chuck Milam, Don Riederer and Jack Rushing, all letter men, and Griffin look tops at center.

Douglas says Griffin is a potential All-American but that Smith also will play a lot of pivot.

It's noticeable that Capt. George Eckert, a tackle, wasn't mentioned. He apparently has to earn his spots.

Sophs Dean Pryor and Sam Reeves are in line for considerable reserve duty at halves.

Vets Ross Pritchard and Joe Dugan, along with Sutton, may see spot offensive action at end — for pass catching chores — as well as at halfback. So may Fullback Carpenter be used some at offensive end. Douglas says the offensive end situation — his biggest problem at present — will be improved considerably if an expected junior college transfer who runs 100 yards in 9.9 seconds shows up.

That is the late summer prospects for the 1950 Razorbacks — a combination of experience and inexperienced talent and a position juggling act or two from which Douglas thinks he will get the best results.

Washington, Aug. 17 — (AP) — The trainmen and conductors unions today called strikes on two short line railroads beginning next Tuesday, to last until midnight Saturday, Aug. 26.

The walkouts here ordered on the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroad, with headquarters in Chicago, and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad, Pittsburgh, effective at 6 a. m., Aug. 22.

A spokesman for the unions said the strike will directly involve 3,000 workers, and will indirectly idle perhaps 50,000.

Similar five-day walkouts were directed yesterday at three strategic terminals employing 3,000 trainmen. The terminal railroads are the Kentucky and Indiana Terminal railroad, with headquarters at Louisville, the Minnesota transfer railroad, with headquarters at St. Paul, and the River Terminal railroad with headquarters at Cleveland.

The two unions are engaged in a wage dispute with the nations railroads.

Government To Keep Crop Supports High

Washington, Aug. 17 —(AP)—The government will support grower prices of major crops in 1951 at maximum levels permitted by law.

That level is 9 per cent of parity. Parity, a standard for measuring farm prices, is declared by law to be equally fair to producers and those who buy their products.

The government could drop the supports to 85 per cent of parity next year.

But the international situation being what it is, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan has decided to keep supports high to encourage big crops.

The first formal announcement of a 1951 support program may come within a few days for wheat.

The winter wheat portion of this grain crop will be seeded in the fall. Hence the department will announce the support program soon to encourage increased plantings over this year's crop.

Other crops to be supported at the 9 per cent parity rate include cotton, corn, rice, tobacco and peanuts. Formal announcement of rates for these crops may not come until after the first of the year, because they are not planned until next spring.

The current wheat support rate averages $1.90 a bushel at the farm. Next year's rate is likely to be above $2, because the parity price probably will be higher. Parity prices rise and fall with corresponding changes in prices farmers pay for goods and services.

In all likelihood, the government will set higher production goals in 1951 for cotton, corn, rice and peanuts as well as wheat. It is anxious to maintain reserves for possible spread of the Korean war.

This year's wheat and cotton crops are falling below government production goals. But large reserves from past crops will provide ample supplies until 1951 crops are harvested.

Arkansas Power And Light Co. In Law Suit

Jonesboro, Aug. 17 —(AP)—A suit for $360,094 has been filed here as the result of a fire November 10, 1948, which destroyed the Northern Rice Milling Co., seven miles south of here at Gibson Switch.

Plaintiffs are Frances Butterworth, Jonesboro, administrator for the estate of the late J. D. Butterworth; Harry Cormier, De Witt; the Northern Rice Milling Co., a partnership; and ten insurance companies.

Arkansas Power & Light Co., is the defendant.

The plaintiffs allege in the suit that the fire was the result of AP & L sending more power into the plant than the electrical system was designed to carry. The suit sets out nine charges of alleged negligence against A P & L.

The case will be tried in circuit court. The plaintiffs are represented by the law firms of Frierson and Snellgrove, Jonesboro, and Max Reid, Reid and Roy, Blytheville.

Prisoners Say That They Have Soviet Officers

By JACK MacBETH

With U. S. 24th Division in Korea, Aug. 17 —(AP)—Take it from three cringing, skinny North Korean prisoners of war, each of their regiments has a Russian adviser.

Captured Wednesday a short distance behind the American front line, the prisoners of war—filthy and dirty—carried two Russian rifles and a U. S. carbine. They were found mingling in civilian dress, with a large group of refugees.

Interviewed through an interpreter, the captives told a dismal story of life in the North Korean army. None of them wanted to go back and all claimed they would be shot if they did return.

Each said there was one Soviet officer attached to each North Korean regiment.

This is what they had to say about conditions in their army:

Morale is low. The men have been told repeatedly that victory is "imminent." They do not get enough food. They are afraid and fight tenaciously only because the alternative is death from their own leaders. Their casualties have been heavy and they say "most of our friends are dead."

One prisoner said a complete company from his regiment recently deserted into the hills. He claimed very few of the soldiers are Communist party members.

In the fallen South Korean capital of Seoul, one prisoner said, there are more than 1,000 U. S. prisoners. The two Communist soldiers denied any knowledge of atrocities committed against American soldiers by their comrades.

Marketing Unit

Tel Aviv, Israel — (AP) — Histadrut — the powerful Jewish General Federation of Labor — is setting up a big purchasing and marketing organization for industries in all villages and cities of Israel. It is called "Harnshavek." Its objectives are two-fold: to obtain raw materials for Histadrut industries in immigrants' settlements and towns and cities, and to handle the wholesale marketing of products of these industries.

Israel's federation of labor is unique in that it not only represents workers who are members of trade unions, but in many instances is itself their employer.

Sideburns were named after Gen. Ambrose Burnside.

Senate Parties Compromise On Communist Cure

Washington, Aug. 17 —(AP)—Senate Republican sponsors of an anti-Communist bill offered today to abandon their efforts to tie to a home front mobilization measure — in exchange for a Democratic pledge.

The compromise proposed by Senators Mundt (R-SD) and Ferguson (R-Mich) calls for a flat promise by the Democratic leaders to bring up the curb-the-Communists bill later for separate action.

"Those are the only terms on which we will withdraw the bill as a rider amendment to the economic controls bill," Ferguson told a reporter.

Senator Maybank (D-SC), floor manager of the controls measure, said the Mundt-Ferguson proposal would have to await the return to Washington of Senator Lucas (D-Ill), the majority leader, Lucas, who is in Illinois, is expected later this week.

Senate Democrats have arranged a conference for next Monday to discuss the tangled situation. The party's leaders, and Lucas particularly, have shown little sympathy for the Mundt-Ferguson version of internal security. The bill, they say, is a "housekeeping" measure that is not worth the effort of passing. They also say it is a "housekeeping" measure that is not worth the effort of passing.

The measure would require registration of Communists and would outlaw Communist activities. It also would outlaw Communist activities.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain on the back muscles can cause backaches. This may lead to many troubles of aging bodies. Backaches, energy, headaches and dizziness up nights or frequent passages from minor bladder irritations and dampness or dietary indiscretions. If your discomforts are due to causes, don't wait to develop a chronic condition. Used successfully by millions of people. While these symptoms often otherwise occur, it's a great many times. Don't give away the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Flush out waste. Get Doan's.

FIRST OF THE FINE CARS IN VALUE

BIG MOMENT - with a Double Impact

It's a big moment when any new car rolls up to your door and you start out fresh and spanking bright.

Think, then, what it's going to mean when that new car is a ROADMASTER like this one pictured here.

You'll swing wide the door and slide into a car that's truly fine—and looks it.

You'll put foot to treadle and touch off the night of a great, 152-horsepower Fireball straight-eight that's ready to master any road—or anything it meets there.

You'll have the silken magic of Dynaflo Drive to simplify your driving, ease your way. A handsome flexible steering wheel, automatic windshield washers, soft Foamtex cushions, and many other items that are "extras" elsewhere are standard equipment here.

But even while you enjoy all that, you've a still deeper satisfaction enriching your pleasure.

For here you have not only a fine car, but a sound and frugal investment as well.

You have paid less per pound than any comparable car costs—and automotive men will tell you price per pound is the soundest measure there is of solid, thoroughgoing merit.

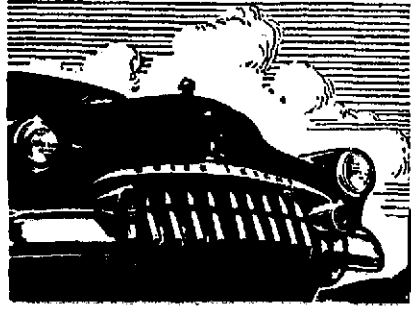

You've bought quality—top quality—all the fine things a fine car should provide. But you haven't spent a penny more than a fine car need cost.

And that can mean a lot. For instance—

Drop in on your Buick dealer. Try out a ROADMASTER. Match it, feature by feature and point by point, with any other fine car on the road.

Then get the price:

You may well find that you can get not only a new ROADMASTER for the sum you had in mind—but maybe a new fur coat for your wife as well!

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT. This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
 Copyright, 1950
 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
 (Copyright, 1950
 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
 Manchester, Vt., Aug. 17 — I have read the first installment of the strictly objective, impartial "survey" of communism in the Green Mountains published in the Rutland Herald which, in common with the rest of Vermont journalism, was caught flatfooted by the expose that followed the Lattimore case in the senate. The Rutland Herald and the White River Valley Herald, which circulate in the area of the principal communist infiltration, immediately took a defensive attitude. They defended the fair renown of Vermont against facts that had escaped their professional notice. And by implication they defended themselves for having underestimated the communist activity in their state.

The Rutland Herald's survey is written by William Gilman, described as a reporter of 20 years' experience including service with the U. P. and the New York Times in China. This would indicate nothing politically.

It is further stated that Mr. Gilman wrote a book about Alaska called "Our Hidden Front" for which he was commended by Dr. Ernest Gruening, the governor. Doctor Gruening was an appointee of Harold Ickes, whose attitude toward communists has been broad-minded. Doctor Gruening's approval is not necessarily a guarantee. A reporter might be a little hard up for honors in citing this endorsement, but inasmuch as Mr. Gilman has laid that one on the line these further facts are pertinent:

The White River Valley Herald reported that Mrs. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the wife of the arctic explorer, said that about one year ago Ordway Southard, whom Senator Joe McCarthy before the senate labeled a communist, was granted permission to study in the Stefansson private library books about the arctic region. Mrs. Stefansson said Southard was an anthropologist who had studied at the University of Alaska. The White River Herald reaffirmed McCarthy's charge that Southard was a communist candidate for office and that he attended Harvard and graduated from the University of Alaska "where he majored in anthropology and archeology."

Alaska is an extremely vulnerable area. Communist propaganda has been dinned away at the proposition that Alaska is actually still Russian territory because the States had no authority to pass a Czar who sold it to the United States.

It seems clear that Mrs. Stefansson and her husband did not know Southard's political background when they let him consult their arctic material in their private library. However, the Russians would not permit any American to consult their information on any subject and any Russian who permitted a non-Communist American to study private writings on the arctic would be put to death. Mrs. Stefansson says flatly according to the White River Herald that Southard, a scholar educated in Alaska and, of course, Harvard, "was allowed to do so." And, a year later, by sheer coincidence, the same Southard bobbed up and bought from Stefansson, acting as agent for Lattimore, a half-interest in a farm and dwelling property in the now notorious Red Belt of the Green Mountains.

Lattimore and Stefansson are old, intimate friends. Stefansson is named many times in the records of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, but has not been identified as a communist. Lattimore has been charged with being a Soviet spy by Senator McCarthy speaking on the senate floor and in committee. He took cognizance of this charge to the extent of a book of denial which, naturally, has received priceless free advertising from the New York Herald Tribune and New York Times. He public is asked to believe that it was by mere coincidence that Lattimore obtained half-interest in the Vermont property from Stefansson with his record, and sold it to Southard, of all people, with his record.

Mr. Gilman, the great authority on Alaska as "our hidden front," made no reference to these interesting factors in his opening essay. The article minimizes the whole situation with a familiar, whole, situation with a familiar, heavy-lidded eye of humor which attempts to ridicule exposes and those who make them.

Mr. Gilman reports that he discovered only a hot-bed of damaging gossip and rumor.

"The scene has reached the point where some wondered whether if they dared attend Bethel's barbecue where several hundred gather to eat Angus beef because suspects might be present and that might be built of association, he wrote. "Or take the man wondering if he should bale hay for a neighbor whose wife took her child to the Randolph playground where suspects also bring their children."

These droll sallies are a commentary on the Rutland Herald's estimate of the intelligence of the shrewd Vermont Yankee. The shrewd Vermont Yankee is supposed to believe that they dispose of the coincidences here set forth and other information of equal force.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

By GAYLE TALBOT
 (For Hugh Fullerton Jr.)
 New York, Aug. 17 — (P) — Eddie Stanky's effort to rattle Andy Seminick the Phillies' batter by waving his arms from the infield has elicited a fine point in baseball ethics from a member of the Brooklyn club, who prefers to remain anonymous.

"Eddie was in the wrong," he said reflectively. "President Frick was absolutely right in turning down the Giants' protest on the game they lost to the Phils. And I say that despite the fact it would have helped us (the Dodgers) in the pennant race if he had thrown the game out."

"Sure, there's nothing in the rule book that says an infielder can't wave his arms to distract a batter. But there isn't anything either that says you can't take a mirror out there and shine it in the hitter's eyes. They'd need a rules book as big as a phone directory to cover every fool thing you could think up to annoy a batter."

The Giants had a right to be sore at him the way he was cutting them down on the bases. He's a mean customer when he starts running out there. We know, believe me. But the way Stanky tried to get even with him, that wasn't right. What the Giants should've done was low-bridge Seminick a couple of times and he would have caught on in a hurry. That's the only way to handle the tough guys.

"You know he's got to come up a couple of times in a game when nobody's on base and he can't hurt you so much. That's when you make him hit the dirt. Feed him a couple around the back of his neck and the kind that's hard to get away from — and you'd be surprised what a fine effect it has."

"That's the way it's always been done and that's what the Giants should've done. The way Stanky did it, that was just asking for trouble from the umpires. Frick was right in not letting him get away with it."

From what the boys are saying today, there appear to be a number of reasons for the decline of Brooklyn fortunes in the National League.

Manager Burt Shotton has made too many mistakes in the heat of battle, being consistently out-thought by more alert rivals; some of the players do not play their best; President Branch Rickey has insisted upon carrying too much wood in the form of rookies who are not yet ready to help carry the load.

All of which may be true. But the thought occurs that, when the final reckoning is made and the league champs are not in the world series again, there are those who will mention to Rickey the players' let get away the past winter.

Although They Drop Bombs Over Wide Areas U. S. Pilots Feel for Innocent Civilians

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
 AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The unprecedented B-29 attack upon North Korean troops concentrated in a 28-square mile area northwest of Wae kwang doubtless will set military experts to figuring feverishly.

It was the first time B-29's ever had given close-up mass support of ground forces, and the first time they ever had been assigned to blanket a great area in a direct blow at hostile troops.

Inevitably the experts will aim to figure how the results of such bombing would compare with the use of an atomic bomb on the same area. They may find that regular quarter-ton bombs, if well placed, will do more damage than the A-bomb unless the latter is exploded so as to produce its maximum efficiency.

In any event, this mass bombing may be expected to produce a howl from the Communist camp. Moscow already had been branding Uncle Sam as a barbarian because of bombing in Korea.

Soviet Delegate Jakob Malik, who now is presiding over the U. N. security council, has a resolution before that body charging the United States with the "inhuman, barbarous bombing of the peaceful population of peaceful towns and populated areas." Russia calls on America to stop this alleged bombing immediately.

It will be strange if Malik doesn't use the latest bombing as the text for another hot protest. I never hear such absurd allegations without thinking of a statement made to me in England during the late world war by Lt. Col. Paul Tibbets of Miami, Fla., one of America's air heroes and wearer of the purple heart. We got onto the subject of bombing populated areas, and Tibbets said that before his first raid he was sick with thoughts of the civilians who might suffer from his bombs.

"That feeling probably dates back to my training days," he said. "We had it hammered into us constantly that in practice we must watch for the folks beneath us. x x x When I look at a 2,000 pound bomb in the bay of my ship I know a lot of people may get hurt. My anxiety is for the women and kids. You see, I have a three year old boy of my own at home."

What Col. Tibbets said goes for American airmen as a whole. That's the answer to allegations that U. S. airmen engage in "inhuman barbarous bombing."

Success of Plane Raid Undetermined

By MAX BOYD

Washington, Aug. 17 — (P) — The bombing of massed Korean Communist by B-29 superfortresses underscores some of the reasons why atomic bombs are not now being used in support of American and South Korean soldiers.

With around 100 B-29's, the air force was able to spread approximately 1,000 tons of conventional bombs over an area in which North Koreans were concentrated for an expected attack.

The Superforts' bombing runs were made without interference by enemy fighters, since U. S. and Australian planes completely control the air over Korea.

Whether the expected Communist attack will be stopped indefinitely by the single massive bombing is a question.

But should the Communists re-

McMath to See Air Squadron in Action

Washington, Aug. 17 — (P) — Gov. Sid McMath of Arkansas was en route to San Antonio, Tex., today after a visit here in connection with efforts to obtain the proposed $200,000,000 hydrogen bomb plant for Arkansas.

As he left here, McMath said he was optimistic over the state's chances.

From here he headed by plane to Memphis and said from there he would continue to San Antonio to review the 15th squadron and other Arkansas air guard units now at San Antonio.

A similar review is planned tomorrow at Camp Polk, La., where Arkansas national guard troops of the 39th division are in training.

McMath's visits here included one yesterday with President Truman.

She'll Win The Race In A Walk
AP. Newsfeatures
 Pittsburgh — A pretty 27-year old mother is racing with her two-month-old son to see who walks first.
 The odds are that Mrs. Robert Korach will win over chubby Tommy who was born June 7, a few months after his mother was stricken by infantile paralysis.
 Mrs. Korach was stricken in February shortly after coming to nearby McKeesport from Philadelphia with her engineer husband and two-year-old daughter, Lynn. Says she:
 "We weren't even unpacked and my husband has had to bathe it ever since."
 Mrs. Korach went to Pittsburgh Municipal hospital where she spent long hours on a rocking bed to aid her circulation and breathing. When Tommy was born, he weighed a hefty seven pounds, two ounces, and now, tips the scale at a healthy 10½ pounds.
 She has responded so well to treatment that she's in a wheelchair at the D. T. Watson home in

Woman Denies Knowledge of Crime, Released
 Van Buren, Aug. 17 (AP) — A woman who was detained for questioning by police after the reported killing of a companion, she knew who killed a cab driver here last week, was released last night.
 The woman denied she ever had said she knew anything about the fatal shooting of Clyde E. Wells, 56, of Fort Smith, whose body was discovered Aug. 10 in the trunk of his cab.
 Her identity was not revealed. She was picked up after her companion went to the police. Previously, police had said a pistol identified by ballistics tests as that with which Wells was slain had been checked at the Missouri Pacific station here Aug. 10 by a young Negro, who later was killed by a train.

BOY MAKES A FLYING SAUCER FLY
AP. Newsfeatures
 Charleston, W. Va. — Department of Defense officials please note: There is such a thing as a flying saucer.
 Joe Ward, 14-year-old son of a pilot, has one.
 He made it himself. And it flies.
 The youth, who lives at Belle, about 10 miles east of Charleston, is a model plane builder of years standing. Intrigued by the thought of a flying saucer, he started out to make one. He had no model to work from, obviously. He would start with a doughnut-shaped contraption made of balsa wood and silk and equipped with a motor, flaps, landing gear, wheels and propeller.
 The boys of his gang scoffed at the idea that the contraption would fly. So did his father, who bet two cans of gasoline that the saucer would flop.
 The payoff came at a large cinder plant field near the Dupont plant. The saucer, attached to 50 feet of wire so that it would not be lost, not only flew but it looped, hovered, circled and dipped.
 Joe now has plans for a larger, radio-controlled saucer that would put the skeptics to rout.

Malaya Coffee
 Singapore — (AP) — Malaya would readily grow coffee if assured of a market by the United States, says J. W. Ewart, acting agricultural officer, Singapore. He was commenting on a report that the U. S. Senate will shortly consider a bill designed to encourage coffee production in Southeast Asia to alleviate the world shortage and provide competition to Brazil. Ewart said coffee had been grown for some time in Malaya but the industry had been superseded by rubber.

Possessive Parents

Dear Miss Dix: This is a plea from one who has not been allowed to mature socially. My parents have done much to fulfill my desire for knowledge, but have not realized my need for human relationships. I have never been permitted to do the things that other youngsters do, or to have any intimate association with boys and girls of my own age.

I have never even had a girl friend, and as the result I lack knowledge of life and emotional control. My parents consider that I am a reincarnation of their youth and that I want to do only the things that they used to do when they were young. I am expected to fall in with this plan as I were a baby. How can I make them understand that a girl of 19 has some right to make decisions for herself and to have her chance at life?

T. S. B.

Answer: There is no problem harder to solve than that of the children who are enslaved by possessive parents, because the parents are so unalterably sure that they are right and that they are doing the very best thing possible for the children they adore.

Self-Righteous Protest

"Why, I'd give my life to save John or Mary a single pang of suffering," they cry. "Why, I have never thought of anything except Mary since the day she was born. I have watched over her every minute of her life. I have studied with her. I have played with her. I have sacrificed myself and my own pleasures and inclinations to her. I have guarded her every minute. I have never left her to shift for herself and get acquainted with strange children, as so many mothers do. I have kept her from doing the foolish things that so many young girls do. And you can see for yourself that Mary isn't like the modern girls at all about us," they add self-righteously.

You do see that Mary isn't like the other girls and you want to weep. She is as much an alien in any bunch of young people as a white swan would be in a flock of blackbirds. She is a wallflower at parties, not because she lacks attractiveness, but just because she doesn't fit into the picture.

Parents make no greater mistake than when, as this girl says, they imagine their children to be reincarnations of themselves, animated by the same impulses and tastes and desires. This is not true once in a million time. Each of us has his own individuality and each of us has his right to live his life in his own way. And parents commit a cruel wrong against their children when they deny them this right and try to force them into their own mold.

Dear Miss Dix: Why do men expect the "I love you's" they say

Despite Fame DiMaggio Is 'Ill at Ease'

By MILTON RICHMAN

New York, Aug. 16 (UP)—No one in town has more friends than Joe DiMaggio — yet no one in town is more homesick.

He is a courteous aloof by nature and keeps to himself even in the Yankee dugout and clubhouse. But he is no snob. It's just that DiMaggio was ill at ease with strangers during his rookie years and some of his early uncertainty still lingers today.

Top of that, DiMaggio is moody — a dark brooder when things are going wrong.

In those facets of his personality lies the mystery in DiMaggio. When another ball player is in a slump, he babbles to reporters about the reasons, the cures. DiMaggio just broods and occasionally snaps at inquiring writers.

You could say he's just a nasty customer. But that is not true. That brooding, that unwillingness to make table talk about a batting slump is the key to Joe DiMaggio's greatness. For he is a team player above all. He hates the world when he is not doing the team any good.

When he was benched last week, for the first time in his career, he said, "the way I've been going I didn't belong in there. I haven't been doing myself or anybody else any good out there."

When he brooded to an almost nasty degree about being dropped out of the cleanup order, he said, "I follow orders; break no rules and do my best to respond to all that is asked of me. That's all."

When sympathizing writers urged him to snap out of his gloominess, to be a bit more pleasant lest a wave of bad publicity brand him as unduly resentful, he said, "My idea is that they don't pay me for conversation."

That's DiMaggio — Do your best, play your heart out and owe nothing to anyone.

He can be touched. One day that will remain indelibly etched in DiMaggio's memory is Oct. 1, 1949. That was "Joe DiMaggio Day" at Yankee stadium, an afternoon when the angular, 35-year-old outfielder was showered with gifts of all sorts, including two automobiles.

It wasn't the gifts that touched him — he didn't need them and gave most away — but the spirit shown by his own fans and teammates. There was an obvious lump in his throat as he made his thank-you speech.

Joe's fellow players adore him. That is important, for you know a man must be genuinely fine when he's loved despite a moodiness which could certainly be interpreted as unfriendliness. Joe Page says, "DiMaggio is one in a million. There's no beating him on or off the field." Phil Rizuto says, "It's a thrill to play on the same nine with him."

Those are veterans. What about the rookies? Well, Dick Wakefield had no happy life with the Yankees, but when he left he said, "I've played with a lot of guys since I came into baseball but if there's a better one around than DiMaggio I haven't seen him."

he has never told me he loved me. One time I asked him if he did and he said, "Of course, I do. Why do you suppose I married you?" I am starved for affection and feel as if I cannot live without it. Do all men drop their courtship on or off the altar? And is that the price a woman pays for a home and children?

F. O. B.

Answer: I get thousands of letters like this from women who have good homes, lovely children, husbands who lavish upon them everything in the world they want except a little petting and a few words of appreciation and affection.

And as I read these letters I never know which I think have less intelligence — the wives who make themselves miserable over a puny imaginary wrong, or the husbands who know that they could make their wives happy by a kiss or a word and who are too dumb to give it.

For these women in their hearts know that their husbands love them even if they never mention the fact. They know that the man who spends his evenings at home does so because he finds his own earth. They know that the man who toil to keep his wife soft and warm is giving her a proof of devotion that is worth all the high-flown love talk in the world.

And why any intelligent women can't satisfy herself with that knowledge and rest assured of her husband's love, why she need to have him make a fuss over everything she does and tell her that she is the most beautiful creature on earth, why she can't realize that actions speak louder than words, nobody knows.

Dear Miss Dix: My father doesn't agree with me that the $30 deposit that I must make on entering a training school for nurses and the small wages I will get are worth the work I will have to do and the training I will receive. What do you think?

GENE

Answer: What other profession could you study at so small a cost? In what other occupation would you be paid at all while learning your profession? Nursing is a fine profession for women and the trained nurse has not only the satisfaction of making a good living, but of knowing that she is a ministering angel who alleviates the sickness and suffering of those with whom he comes in contact. yet."

The obvious question concerning DiMaggio is, now that he appears to be on the decline, what is he thinking about? No one knows. There is no one close enough to this "loner" to discuss such matters with him. He isn't happy, to be sure. He is never happy when he's not doing so well.

He should not be worried about the future, for radio and television deals can keep him in caviar for many a year. But perhaps that's the trouble as this giant hero of millions slumps desolately on the bench today.

He is not a radio announcer by trade, nor a television performer. He is a baseball player, and will never be happy when he's not playing baseball. . . great baseball.

Won't Dismiss Charges Against Lewis, Miners

Washington, Aug. 16 (AP)—A national labor relations board examiner refused today to dismiss unfair labor practice charges brought last winter against John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers.

Examiner Arthur Left ordered hearings to proceed on the charges although Welly K. Hopkins, attorney for the union, said the coal mine operators who made the complaints had asked that they be dropped.

Hopkins, in asking dismissal of the charge, hinted there might be work stoppages in the coal mines if the charges were pressed.

Left said he would permit the dismissal motion to be renewed after he had heard the evidence in the case.

Heavy Rains Drench Part of Arkansas

By United Press

Heavy rains drenched and cooled Arkansas from border to border last night, but the spectacular electrical storms caused little reported damage.

High winds and lightning tore off tree limbs at Dardanelle and caused a temporary disruption in

The soft coal operators filed the charges last January during the soft coal strike and their long negotiations with Lewis over a new contract. They complained that four demands made by Lewis amounted to unfair labor practices under the Taft-Hartley law.

A contract signed March 5 dropped or softened all four disputed points. The new contract runs for two years.

Large amounts of rain fell in sections of the state, causing heavy flooding in some areas. The rain was particularly heavy in the northern part of the state, where it caused significant damage to crops and property.
